

Reproduction of the Accreditation Symbol

All information reference from Safeguarding Children Program - Certification Trade Mark Rules

The Accreditation Symbol can only be used by an Accredited Organisation if it is reproduced as detailed in the Safeguarding Children Accredited Organisation Logo.

The logo can be accessed here:

The Accreditation Symbol may be uniformly enlarged or reduced but shall be sufficiently large for the wording to be clear.

Rules

The Accreditation Symbol may be reproduced on a white background or, if in a single colour, to conform to existing organisation media.

- The Accreditation Symbol must not be reproduced in a colour combination at variance with what is presented. The Accreditation Symbol must be placed so as to ensure the prominence of graphic features and text.
- When the Accreditation Symbol is used on paper, it may be embossed or stamped.
- Where an Accredited Organisation uses the Accreditation Symbol on stationery, documents, websites and/or promotional material, it shall be included on the same sheet of paper or web page as its own mark and not disproportionately represented with reference to the actual Accreditation Symbol.

The Accreditation logo must be accompanied by “[Movement Name] is an affiliate of the AZYC which abides by accredited Safeguarding Children policies”

The AZYC safeguarding Children policy needs to be clearly accessible from your home page.

- This means that there needs to be a link visible as soon as the page loads to guide people to the policies
